Teacher Expectation
and Student Mindset

Creating effective pupil independence in lessons depends on many factors. For each section of the wheel note down your strengths or things that you do that help make this area a success. Then assign yourself a mark from 1-5 with 5 being 'highly effective' through to 1 'could do with some extra ideas'. Joining these marks up will help you think about your strengths, where your efforts are going and where you might trial out some new approaches.
